Social and Personal

THE races in the afternoon and the annual Virginia Horse Show will occupy society in Richmond to-day, and the boxes will be crowded for the occasion, and the Westmoreland Club outing to Old Point will mark another big society event. Both will be equally patronized by the fashionable folk, and a number of out-of-town people are here for both occasions. The special train which will convey the club members and their guests to Old Point will leave the Main Street Station promptly at 2 o'clock, and luncheon will be served en route. After dinner at the Chamberlin Hotel, and the hop in the ball room, most of the party will return to Richmond this evening, but a good many will remain over Sunday at Old Point, probably returning on Sunday evening or the following morning. The success of last year's trip to the White is prophetic of a charming and most interesting day, and the whole affair will be altogether delightful.

CHURCH WILL HOLD ALL-DAY SERVICES

Bishop Wilson Will Preach Sermon at Dedication of Edifice at Carson.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Northern Visitors Place Wreath on Confederate Monument.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., May 19.—Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, of Baltimore, will preach the sermon at the dedication of the new Methodist Church at Carson, in Dinwiddie county, on Sunday. All-day services will be held, and in the afternoon the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. George E. Booker, D. D., of this city, with music by the High Street Church choir. The church cost about $4,000, and the cornerstone was laid in May of last year. Rev. John W. Eire is the pastor.

Memorial Day Observances.
Under the auspices of the Grand Army Post of this city, appropriate services will be held on May 30, Federal Decoration Day, in memory of the dead in the two national cemeteries near Petersburg, the one at Poplar Grove, in Dinwiddie, the other at City Point. Some 5,000 or 6,000 soldiers were buried in each of these cemeteries, and in the one at City Point the remains of 100 or more Confederate soldiers rest. Their graves are cared for in like manner as the others.

June 9 will be the Confederate Memorial Day, and the exercises in Blandford Cemetery will, as usual, attract a great crowd of people to unite in paying tribute to the memory of the Southern dead. The remains of over 30,000 Confederate soldiers rest in Blandford. The oration of the day will be delivered by the Rev. George E. Booker, D. D., of this city.

Phoenician Camp, Modern Woodmen of America, last night appointed a committee of its members to make arrangements for the Memorial Day exercises, commemorative of the dead of the North and South.

RAISED FROM A BED OF AGONY

Mrs. Carson, of Argyle, Mich., Tells Strange Story of Suffering and How Cardui Cured Her.

Argyle, Mich.—"I had severe pains from female trouble, and was almost wild with pain in my head.

"I wrote you for advice, which I followed as carefully as possible, and after using seven bottles of Cardui I received great relief.

"I continued to use it, and finally was cured and raised from my bed of agony. Cardui saved my life, when nothing else would help me, and I can't be thankful enough for what it did for me.

"I recommend it to all my friends and neighbors. Two have already tried it and found relief.

"I thank the Lord for planting the herbs and for showing you how to prepare Cardui for our good."

You may be sure, if Cardui will relieve and cure such serious cases as Mrs. Carson's—and it is doing it every day—that it will, much more quickly and certainly, help those women who have no serious symptoms, but are just weak and ailing.

As a general tonic for women, to improve the appetite and build up the constitution, Cardui is in a class by itself.

Whether seriously sick, or simply ailing, try Cardui. It will help you. Your druggist will recommend it. Ask him.

The reception at Centre Hill was on a scale never before seen in Petersburg.

VETERAN CLERK OF MARKET DEAD

Captain Sullivan, Battery Commander in War, Succumbs to Illness.

Captain J. E. Sullivan, for the last twenty-three years clerk of the First Market, died yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the residence of his son, Councilman William E. Sullivan, 551 East Broad Street. He was seventy-eight years of age. Captain Sullivan had been in ill health for several years, and had weakened perceptibly in the last two months.

He enlisted in the Confederate Army April 22, 1861, as a private in what was then known as Thomas's Artillery. Two years later the battery was consolidated with Hampden's Artillery, and was thereafter known as Battery C, Thirty-eighth Battalion, Pickett's Division. He was promoted to sergeant and later to first lieutenant in Thomas's Artillery, and became captain of the consolidated command.

Captain Sullivan took part in the battles of First and Second Manassas, Seven Pines, the Seven Days' Fight, Fredericksburg, Suffolk, Brandy Station, Newburn, N. C., Drewry's Bluff, Gettysburg and Cold Harbor. He was in the trenches around Petersburg, and retreated with the Army of Northern Virginia to Appomattox, but did not surrender there. He was discharged May 8, 1865. He was a member of both R. E. Lee and George E. Pickett Camps, Confederate Veterans, the latter of which he joined in 1897.

He was married to Mrs. Mary E. Sullivan, and had three daughters, Mrs. James R. Marshall, Savannah, Ga.; Mrs. I. J. Hawkes, Richmond, and Mrs. John Marshall, Henric, Va.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The interment will be made in Oakwood.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE PLAN EXPLAINED

President Alderman Favors It, but Strongly Opposes Co-Education.

Strongly opposing co-education, yet arguing for a co-ordinated college for women, the University of Virginia President E. A. Alderman addressed the student body at the regular "college hour" on Monday.

The current number of "College Topics," which recently so bitterly opposed the scheme for a woman's college, calls it one of the greatest speeches President Alderman has ever delivered, and says that his argument was magnificent.

Dr. Alderman stated in the beginning that the occasion would be doubly memorable to him because of the importance of the subject and in the fact that it was his first birthday. After discussing the growth of the modern spirit of education for women, he announced his strong opposition to co-education, on biological, sociological and psychological grounds, and also because the traditions and nature of the University of Virginia are against such a step.

Plan Is Outlined.
On the other hand, he favored the co-ordinate college. He explained that the proposition was to establish such a college within a mile of the university, having its own separate name, site, campus and social organization. The only interests in the two would be in the interchange of faculty and in the use of the same libraries and museums. The advantages of this system would be in economy of administration and in giving the female students the same inheritance of tradition the male students now enjoy.

He pointed out that the Strode bill is dead and that the proposition will now come up in another form. He stated very emphatically that if any one could prove to him that the proposed plan was only a well-veiled attempt to thrust co-education in disguise upon the University of Virginia, he would withdraw his support immediately. He did not think "riff-raff," either male or female, could gain entry into the University of Virginia, thus referring to the name applied by "College Topics" to the women who would patronize such an institution.
